

MAXIMIZING INNOVATION: PEARLSNOW TAKES FLIGHT IN CANADA WITH MAX HENAULT

“ Max Henault's expertise is propelling Pearlsnow to new heights and reshaping the landscape of freestyle training worldwide“

Embarking on a journey of innovation and exploration, Pearlsnow ventures into the heart of Canada, teaming up with the renowned Maximise and visionary Max Henault.

Maximise, a pioneer in freestyle skiing innovation located in Canada, has redefined the winter sports landscape by extending its thrill-packed offerings into the summer season. Our collaboration with Maximise led us to test Pearlsnow in their cutting-edge summer setup, guided by the expertise of Max Henault.

Through rigorous testing, we discovered that Pearlsnow's material, while forgiving and perfect for beginners, needed a counterpart that could meet the demands of deep carves and high-performance facilities.

Introducing PearlTile

PearlTile offers the ideal surface for executing deep carves and achieving precision in every move. PearlTile's exceptional performance shines in freestyle inruns and jumps, offering riders the confidence to execute daring maneuvers with finesse.

The significance of dry slope summer airbag training setups in winter sports cannot be overstated, playing a pivotal role in the pursuit of championship medals.

This innovative approach not only caters to professional athletes striving for excellence but also opens new avenues for the broader public seeking year-round training opportunities. Beyond the traditional winter season, these setups provide a consistent platform for honing skills, pushing limits, and perfecting techniques, ultimately contributing to enhanced performance on the slopes.

As the popularity of dry slope airbag training grows, it marks a transformative shift in the accessibility of top-tier training facilities, offering enthusiasts of all levels the chance to train like the pros and unlock their full potential in the exhilarating world of winter sports.

Max Henault's expertise contributes to optimizing this combination, paving the way for some of the world's best freestyle facilities to elevate their training programs.

Looking Ahead: As Pearlsnow undergoes rigorous testing and optimization at Maximise, the future of winter sports and freestyle training is taking shape. The collaboration with Max Henault not only signifies a groundbreaking partnership but also echoes a commitment to innovation, safety, and the relentless pursuit of excellence in the world of freestyle skiing.
